

ROY BUTTON

Producer

Roy Button rose through the ranks of the film industry by working as an Assistant Director, Production Manager, and Producer alongside the biggest names in Hollywood. For 28 years, he served as Executive Vice President and Head of Physical Production for Warner Brothers in the UK. During his tenure, he was responsible for the safe passage of each new Warner Brothers production in the UK and Europe. Roy was also one of the key driving forces to the studio's investment in Leavesden Studios, which created Europe's largest studio and represented one of the most substantial capital investments for a major studio in the last 50 years. Roy has acquired an extensive knowledge and ability to manage film production from the 'macro' corporate perspective to the 'micro' production perspective for projects of every scope, size, and location.
